CALIFORNIA VOTES ON AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION

Woman Suffrage is the Main Issue, but There is Also Great Interest in the Initiative and Referendum.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 10.—Woman suffrage and more than a score of other proposed amendments to the constitution, some of them involving radical and sweeping changes in the form of state government, will be decided by voters of California today. In this city, Los Angeles and other cities throughout the country the suffragists are making determined efforts to secure the number of votes necessary to achieve the ballot. The campaign has been the most spectacular ever waged in advocacy of equal political rights for the fair sex, and women in Chicago, New York and other cities throughout the country have submitted to voluntary "fasts" in order to save money to be devoted to booming the cause in the Golden State. Even the bitterest opponents of the proposed amendment admit that the women in charge of the state suffrage movement have shown themselves expert organizers and able to give pointers to the shrewdest of practical politicians. California is the most important state in which suffrage has been brought to an issue and the expected victory here will probably have its effect on other states.

Circus tents, moving pictures, red fire and oratory have been used in the campaign of the suffragists, and some of the best speakers of the cause, East and West, have toured the state and have, it is joyously predicted, converted ed enough doubting Thomases to a belief in "votes for women" to assure success in today's election.

The initiative and referendum, the recall for judges, and the amendment enlarging the powers of the state railroad commission, have been especially advocated by Governor Johnson, who was elected on a reform republican platform and pledged to the overthrow of the alleged domination of California by the railroads and other big "interests." Francis J. Heney and other insurgents also toured the state in advocacy of the direct legislation amendments.

President David Starr Jordan of Stanford university announced himself during the campaign as in favor of woman suffrage, while President Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California went on record as opposing the measure. The Chinese Six Companies of San Francisco were bitterly denounced by the suffragists because of their alleged activity against the granting of the ballot to women.

Militant Suffragettes Arrested.

(By Associated Press.)

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 10.—The suffragettes became so militant in their electioneering here today in the constitutional amendments election that several squads of patrolmen had to be sent out to arrest them.

INSURANCE MEN IN SESSION

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Leslie M. Shaw, former secretary of the treasury; William H. Hotchkiss, New York state superintendent of insurance, and officials of many of the leading insurance companies of the country are on the program for addresses during the three-day convention opened in Chicago today by the National Association of Life Underwriters.

The session was opened this morning with an invocation by the Rt. Rev. Samuel Fallows, and addresses of welcome were delivered by Mayor Carter Harrison, President Harry A. Wheeler of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and President Jules Girardin of the Chicago Life Men's Association. Joseph A. DeBoer, president of the National Life Insurance Company of Montpelier, Vt., spoke on the indispensability of the life insurance managers and agents. There will be a reception this evening.

Reports show that five new life insurance associations have become affiliated with the national body during the last year: South Carolina, Mississippi, North Carolina, Delaware and Nashville. The present meeting is the twenty-second of the association.

West Virginia Republicans.

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 10.—At the meeting of the West Virginia republican state central committee here today it is understood that plans for a reorganization of that body, to restore party harmony, together with the formulation of a method for the selection of the next state ticket, will be considered.
